

After just one edition, we enjoy international circulation - with Quintonians in quarantine around the globe enjoying The Q News! May everyone be safe and travel wisely.

We received a number of emails following our highly successful "Collector's First Edition!" It's good to know there's so much community interest out there....keep the cards and letters coming.

Stoner Technologies has been hired to install our new security video system. They come highly recommended by Cheech and Chong.

Few things beat a good book, and The Q is lucky to have a well-stocked and organized library down at the Club House, curated by Laura Dickinson. It remains open during the pandemic. Please stop by and browse our wonderful collection of books and magazines.

The Q News staff owes an apology to everyone in B2. When we reported on B3's hole in the ground, we overlooked yours! The Quintet can claim two holes-in-the-ground, and they've both been here since last summer. Leaking irrigation control valves are the culprit, and with the arrival of dry, warm weather should be fixed within the month.

A group of Quintonians gathered down in the gazebo area July 4th for a remembrance of George Floyd. Eight minutes of silence were observed, followed by a sharing of thoughts, feelings and live music.

Still wondering what to do with that stimulus check from the Fed? Elva Kopacz is coordinating a Quintet group contribution to the Oregon Food Bank in a friendly competition with other local HOA's. Most of us here at the Q are very fortunate – this is an easy way to make a real difference! $1 buys three meals. No food please – drop off a check (made out to Oregon Food Bank) or cash in a sealed envelope with Maria until July 31st. No amount is too small. If you've been contemplating a generous donation to the hard-working and underpaid Q News staff, please re-direct those funds to this worthy cause. Thanks, Elva!

Speaking of volunteers, the Q needs you! A property as large and complex as ours requires lots of planning, design and work - without volunteers doing much of it, we'd have to hire professionals – which means an increase in our costs and, thus, HOA fees. Accounting, engineering, landscaping, event planning, gardening, security, emergency planning and architecture are all areas where volunteers play a vital role. If you have the time, talent and inclination, please consider being one of those making a difference in our community. Contact any Board member for more info.

The Landscaping Volunteers have been quite busy lately, working to better expose ferns, boulders and water features on our property. Here are two "before and after" photos taken behind the gazebo.

Thanks, Landscapers!

And thanks to ALL the Q volunteers who give of their time and talent to make our community better.
